Welcome to the Generator

The Queensland Tenancy Agreement Generator is an AI-powered web application that helps private landlords and property managers produce professional, legally-structured residential tenancy agreements in minutes — without needing a solicitor for every new lease.

This guide walks you through every step of the tool, explains the key fields, and gives you practical tips for landlords and property managers in Queensland.

ITEM	DESCRIPTION
Web App (HTML file)	AI-powered form — open in any browser, no installation needed
This Guide (PDF)	Step-by-step instructions for landlords and agents
QLD Checklist (PDF)	Entry condition report, bond lodgement, and handover checklist

Important: This tool generates agreements based on the Residential Tenancies and Rooming Accommodation Act 2008 (Qld). It is not a substitute for legal advice. For complex situations, always engage a qualified Queensland solicitor.

The 5-Step Process

- 1 Property Details

Enter the full rental address including suburb and postcode. Select the property type (house, unit, townhouse, duplex, granny flat) and specify bedrooms, bathrooms, and car spaces. These details appear in the agreement header and premises clause.
- 2 Parties

Enter the landlord/lessor full name, phone, email, and postal address. Add up to two tenants — both will be listed as co-lessees and equally bound by the agreement terms.
- 3 Lease Terms

Choose between a fixed-term lease (with a defined end date) or a periodic tenancy (month to month). Set the weekly rent, payment day, and payment method. Enter the bond amount — under QLD law, the bond must be lodged with the RTA within 10 days of receipt.
- 4 Inclusions & Special Conditions

Toggle inclusions on or off: pets, indoor smoking, garden and pool maintenance responsibilities, air conditioning, parking, and NBN/internet. Add any special conditions in plain text — these are inserted verbatim into the agreement's special conditions clause.
- 5 Review & Download

The AI generates a complete, numbered tenancy agreement instantly. Review it in the preview panel and click Download. The file saves as a text document you can copy into Word or send as a PDF.

Key Queensland Law Requirements

Bond cap	Max 4 weeks rent for properties under $700/wk; no cap above $700/wk
Bond lodgement	Landlord must lodge bond with the RTA within 10 days of receipt
RTA Form 1a	Use the official Form 1a for all general tenancies — available at rta.qld.gov.au
Entry notice	Landlord must give 24 hours written notice for routine inspections
Rent increases	Min. 12 months between rent increases for periodic tenancies (as of 2024)
Repairs	Emergency repairs must be actioned immediately; routine within reasonable time
Notice to leave	Fixed term: notice required before end date. Periodic: varies by reason
TICA / references	Landlords may conduct reference checks — tenant consent required

Tips for Private Landlords

Before signing

- Conduct a thorough reference and ID check on all prospective tenants.
- Complete a detailed Entry Condition Report (use the checklist in this bundle) and take dated photos.
- Ensure the bond is calculated correctly — no more than 4 weeks rent for rentals under $700/wk.
- Provide the tenant with a copy of the signed agreement and the RTA's 'Renting in Queensland' booklet.

During the tenancy

- Keep copies of all correspondence, rent receipts, and inspection reports.
- Give proper written notice for all entry (minimum 24 hours for routine inspections).
- Action all repair requests promptly and in writing — document everything.
- If rent increases are needed, check current QLD legislation for notice periods.

End of tenancy

- Conduct a thorough exit inspection against the original Entry Condition Report.
- Process bond claims through the RTA — do not withhold bond without valid grounds.
- Issue a Notice to Remedy Breach or Notice to Leave through proper RTA channels.
- Keep records for at least 12 months after tenancy ends.

Tips for Property Managers

- Use this tool to quickly draft initial agreements — always review AI output before issuing to tenants.
- For your agency's official agreements, use RTA Form 1a alongside this tool as a cross-reference.
- The special conditions field is ideal for agency-specific clauses (e.g. professional cleaning on exit).
- Ensure your principal has sight of all agreements before execution.
- For multi-tenancy or rooming accommodation, additional RTA forms apply — consult the RTA website.
- Keep a log of all agreements generated, including dates and parties, for your agency records.

Frequently Asked Questions

Is this legally binding?

The agreement is designed to reflect the RTRA Act 2008 requirements. However, it should be reviewed by a solicitor before signing, especially for high-value properties or complex arrangements.

Can I use this for commercial properties?

No. This tool is for residential tenancies only. Commercial leases are governed by different legislation.

What about rooming accommodation?

Rooming accommodation (boarding houses, share houses with a resident landlord) requires a separate RTA Form 5 — this tool does not cover that arrangement.

Does the AI save my data?

No. The tool runs in your browser. No data is stored or transmitted to any third party beyond the AI model generating the agreement text.

Can I edit the generated agreement?

Yes — copy the text into Microsoft Word or Google Docs and edit freely before printing and signing.

Where do I lodge the bond?

All Queensland bonds must be lodged with the Residential Tenancies Authority (RTA) at rta.qld.gov.au. Landlords can also call the RTA on 1300 366 311.
